"The collection of coins has not only become an infatuating and engrossing pursuit among thousands of persons of all ages and either sex, but out of it has grown up an extensive trade, furnishing the means of livelihood to numerous individuals in all our large cities. Prices have risen a hundredfold, in some cases almost incalculably; unreasonably; and speculation has been rife...

( from The American Journal of Numismatics, Vol. 1, No. 1, May 1866.)

OUR TERMS OF SALE

1. All coins are guaranteed genuine. I will replace or issue a refund for any coin found not to be genuine. This is a lifetime guarantee. Over ten years of business I have never had to make good on this promise. But I make it anyway for your protection.
2. All attributions are guaranteed correct. Also a lifetime guarantee. I will issue a refund or if available provide a replacement for any coin found to be mis-attributed.
3. A full thirty day return privilege is allowed on all purchases. Returns may be made for any reason, or no reason. My business depends on attracting repeat customers. It does neither of us any good for you to keep a coin with which you are not completely satisfied. I am confident that the overall quality and value of the material I offer here is second to none. This does not mean that you might not order a coin that fails to satisfy your personal taste or desire. It is even possible for me to have missed a defect or to have been optimistic about the grade. It can happen. But it is not my intention. I encourage you to use the thirty days as an approval period. Feel free to show your purchases to other knowledgeable EAC members. Get a second opinion. All sales are final after the thirty day period, though I will certainly consider an extension upon reasonable request.
4. Approval service is also available to established clients. Seven days inspection is allowed on approval service at which time the coin must be returned or funds remitted. Approval sales are considered final after the seven days. Extensions are available upon request.
5. All orders are sent postpaid.
6. Strict ANA and EAC guidelines are followed in grading.

In addition to strict ANA and EAC guidelines I have introduced "value" or "net" grading into my descriptions. Sharpness or technical grade according to ANA standards is fairly easy to describe with consistency. However most old copper coins have acquired defects over time that detract from the overall desirability of the coin. I describe these defects and deduct from the technical grade based on their presence. As an example a coin might be described : "1805 S-267 VF20 Sharpness of VF30 with smooth brown surfaces, some light pin scratches where corrosion was removed at 11 o'clock on the reverse." Here is a coin VF30 by ANA standards but with scratches at 11 o'clock on the reverse. Plainly the coin would be more desirable were the scratches not present. I describe the defects and deduct ten points from the overall grade. The first grade listed represents the net or value grade. Clearly this is an art and elements of subjectivity are inevitable. Where there is no second grade listed it is my opinion that the net grade is the same as the sharpness grade. Perhaps not perfection but whatever marks present have been judged to be consistent with the technical grade of the coin and do not detract from the net grade. The intent is for you to have as close an idea as possible of the overall condition of the coin you may wish to purchase. No unpleasant surprises!

7. I attempt to give a rarity rating for each variety listed. These in large part reflect the current EAC rarity ratings as compiled by Jack Robinson's Copper Quotes. I also offer opinions relative to condition census ratings die state and condition rarity. These change constantly as new coins are discovered and reported. I attempt to use the latest data or information available. Still these ratings cannot be 100% accurate and remain a matter of opinion only. Having said this I can also say with confidence that more information and more research is available on Early Copper than any other area of American Numismatics. Large Cents have been actively collected and researched for more than one hundred years. One can therefore have a high degree of confidence in the general accuracy of current information. I urge all my clients to form the numismatic library necessary to allow them to make informed judgments and purchasing decisions. It is foolish to invest money in coins if you have not already invested in the books and other sources necessary to the full enjoyment of them.
8. I have yet to meet anyone who has bought coins merely as an investment who has realized a net return upon liquidation. I have, however, met numerous serious collectors, who having formed a discriminating collection over a period of years realized a substantial profit when their collection was ultimately sold. Most collectors find that the enjoyment, education, and friendships formed as a result of their collecting pursuits have been their greatest reward. It is much easier to lose money quickly than to make money quickly in rare coins. If you are not willing to undertake the educational process necessary to make well informed decisions regarding your collection you will almost certainly lose. Coin dealers are often more than willing to give investment advice. As my good friend Jack Robinson, (who's collection did very well for him when it was sold in 1989), likes to say. THINK ABOUT IT. When you ask a cat which canary to buy remember his first concern may not be how well it sings! There are many opportunities to do well financially in rare coins. But as with any other medium of investment, success is the result of a combination of knowledge, good timing and the ability to wait for the right time to sell. Commit yourself to the process of becoming an educated collector and you stand a much better chance of success.

1787 New Jersey M.56-N VF20 $ 185.00
Close to EF40 with medium chocolate brown color and slightly roughened surfaces. Apparently struck over a Connecticut cent with the seated Liberty's arm jutting out into the field from the horse's chest. A light plan striation runs from top of date to rim K4. In December's issue I remarked on these overstruck 56-N New Jerseys. I received an informative reply from Mike Hodder which I re-produce below.

Dear Chris,

On page 7 of your list, in the description of the 1787 New Jersey 56-n struck over a Connecticut host, you ask why the NJ parasite comes with great color and surfaces while the CT host rarely does. For what it's worth, here are my thoughts on the matter.

Maris 56-n was an exceptionally well-made die. Of all New Jersey varieties, 56-n is by a long way the most common. In fact, together with 1787 Connecticut Miller 4-L (the "Horned Bust" variety), it makes up the majority of all state coppers surviving today. I have records of 149 different examples of M. 56-n in a database of about 4,000 New Jersey's, for example. Added to the solidity of the die is my observation that M. 56-n was usually well struck, both on virgin and host flans. Host coins were usually annealed prior to striking, to relax their crystalline structures so the overstrike would take and not unduly stress the NJ dies. Thus, the hosts received sharply struck impressions from well-made dies. Surface metal flow during striking across the die faces could create fairly smooth surfaces on the overstruck coin. I don't think that the surface quality of the host had much to do with how the overstruck M. 56-n looked unless the host were severely flawed.

As for color, I've seen M. 56-n's ranging from lovely, deep olive greens and browns to ugly pale oranges that look like cleaned coins.

Your M. 56-n looks a lot like it's over an AUCTOBI variety, Miller obverse 39. I can't be sure from the plate, but if so, it's rare! M. 56-n comes over just about anything the coiners could find to use: Connecticuts, Machin's, Vermonts, regal and fake George III coppers, and so on. The luck collector who gets yours will have a lot of fun attributing the undertype.

Yours truly,

1838 N 16 R7 Poor $ 175.00

Well as 38 N-16s go perhaps this is not the absolutely worst one. Then again it may be. It is however absolutely (and guaranteed to be so) an authentic 1838 N-16. What drew me initially to this coin was a cute little mint made curved clip at K2. A nice tan color but remarkably worn for a cent of it's vintage head style circa 1835- 1839. The date on this was completely worn, though some helpful soul in the past had helpfully scratched the digits 1 and 8 slightly to the right of their normal position. At this point presumably having exhausted his expertise the artist turned his attentions to the reverse where he cleverly carved a U into the space of the E in CENT. Cruel fate. If only he had been born a century and a half later such artistic vision would certainly have earned him an NEA grant! Glancing slightly to the right of the artists handiwork I noticed the N of CENT was broken this the result of a break in the die. I flipped back to the obverse and sure enough the browlock fused to the coronet. A 38 N-16 ! Eureka! quickly followed by Oh No! who could have done this? What a tragedy! This makes somewhere in the neighborhood of the twentieth 38 N-16 known according to John Wright's cent book. It certainly will rank somewhere among the worst. But it is what it is. I imagine it will also qualify as the least expensive example ever offered of this variety. Perhaps in that respect the "artists'" efforts will work to someone's benefit after all.

Popular as a variety that has been commonly listed as an 1840/1839 overdate. Actually the apparent remnants of a struck over date are nothing more than hub defects and they appear in the same place in a slightly more worn state on several other petite head varieties, 41 N-2 and 42 N-2 being examples.

COMMENTS

Collectors are a fairly intelligent group in general. Most are good at what they do. My mailing list is largely made up of successful people. Educators, physicians, business professionals, etc. They are also busy people. Their collecting pursuits are a respite from their work life. All of us would like to keep our collections a respite, an oasis, "just a hobby". But at the same time everyone wants their collecting decisions to be intelligent well informed ones. The kind of smart confident decisions they are used to making in their work life. And hobby or no, even the casual collector realizes his collection is an investment as well and that his purchases must be ruled in some part by a realistic determination of value. Every collector will experience at some time the conflict between his desire to own a piece and that "reasonable determination of value". At that time he will have to evaluate not only his WANT but the premium above value he is being required to pay as well as his chances of finding a similar piece at a more reasonable level at some time in the future. Provide to a collector a level of comfort and some degree of confidence when making a difficult decision like this and he will be around a long time. Force that collector to feel "out to sea" un-informed and ill at ease with his collecting decisions and he will soon be explaining to you over the phone how much he now enjoys collecting postcards and match book covers. ( Before I get notes from you closet collectors of the aforementioned items I will confess that I already have a sizable collection of both postcards and matchbook covers-ask me about the 1940s Betty Grable matchbook. Inside the shapely cover is a neat little row of the legs that launched a thousand ships. You strike one of Betty's red spiked high heels on the cover and her calf bursts into flame!)*

I have written the above as a kind of preamble to a recommendation. I have been putting together a numismatic library for more than a decade. Collecting numismatic literature for about half as long. I'm far short of being an expert in this area. It has also been a difficult area in which to gain expertise. An area requiring more in depth study and a broader scope of reference than the casual collector is likely to devote to it.

I have just spent a little over five hours pouring through Charles Davis book "American Numismatic Literature". I figure that five hours have gained me as much insight into and understanding of the book market as I would have gained in several years of casual collecting. Davis' volume lists virtually every significant reference work, auction sale, fixed price list or topical work on rare coins that has been issued over the last 150 years. Each work is listed by author or company. A chronological listing of auction appearances or sales history along with the listed condition and price realized is given. This information is invaluable in estimating the relative rarity and availability of a given work as well as establishing some guide to value. The content of different sales and texts is discussed. Thus again allowing the casual collector some basis for evaluating the importance of the work for HIS library. The side notes or footnotes are virtually a book in themselves, entertaining and informative. If you have not yet guessed I very highly recommend this book. Whether you collect numismatic literature or not, every collector should be in the process of building a reference library. Having this volume to refer to is like having Lee Iacocca along to advise you about buying a new car.

*(I just made this up-to my knowledge no such Betty Grable item exists. ...but if it does exist I want one!)

NADIA UPDATE!

Ok several of you commented on my tete a'tete (this cultured stuff I get from a friend in Seattle) with Nadia Comaneci mentioned last issue. One of you even went so far as to place an irate call ... "This is Mr Comaneci... My daughter can eat however many peanuts she wants to!..." It took an uneasy moment or two for me to recognize the trace of Louisville drawl behind the faux Bucharestian bark. Well all is well for Nadia. Our unblinking, tell it like it is investigative report on the peanut munching scandal must have forced their hand. The Daily Oklahoman Wednesday, Feb 10 p3. Devotes a full page to Nadia and confirms what we insiders knew all along. She is now living in Norman Okla. full time. AND she and ex Okla.U. and 1984 Olympic gymnast Bart Conner ARE an item! Well what a relief! We can draw the curtain on this episode. Her nervousness and furativity were not the evidence of stress and unhappiness but rather the natural expression of young hearts aflame! Remember you read it here first. We always aim to provide a happy ending whenever possible.
